

PROFILE

Australian Guitar

With nearly two decades of experience in the industry, Australian Guitar magazine is the only 100 percent Australian-owned and produced guitar publication in the country. A bi-monthly music bible that's jam-packed with the hottest interviews, the latest news, and must-have information on everything from DIY to the newest products and gear available locally and internationally, Australian Guitar is now the biggest circulating music guide and resource for every guitarist and music fanatic in tune with today's scene. Along with must-read editorial, our issues are loaded with enticing content for our readers ranging from competitions, promotions, music tabs, live reviews, CDs, DVDs, and everything else our readers are into. We know that there's more to a muso's life than just being a musician, and we cover everything that goes along with a music-loving lifestyle. Whether our readers are the professional player, the hobby player, the weekend warrior or the beginner, we have all their bases covered. It's all about the music and we have the perfect blend of content that keeps the crowd roaring for the encore every time.

Our readers are cashed up and looking for the best of the best when it comes to music and their lifestyle. They have worked hard for their cash and have the extra money to spend on life's luxuries, such as limited edition releases, box sets, vinyl, CDs, instruments, music and recording gear, alcohol, travel, electronics, and entertainment. They have a wide range of guitars, amps, pedals, music software and recording equipment at their disposal, and are constantly on the lookout for more. Our active readers want to know the ins and outs of the music world and the instruments they are interested in buying. Tech talk and specs are of huge interest and they love to hear from other guitarists who rate certain brands and products over others. They trust us and look to us for opinions on what to buy, what not to buy, and information on the latest gear from around the world.
